

BIOGRAPHY

Reed Foley is a Nashville-based country artist blending the storytelling heart of the '90s with the polished, modern edge of today. Born in Sparta, North Carolina, and raised in the Daytona Beach area, Reed has built an impressive independent career with nearly 20 million streams, a Top 40 single on the MusicRow breakout chart, and songs cut by other artists.

He's opened for stars like Jason Aldean and Cooper Alan, performed at NASCAR fan zones nationwide, and recently celebrated his first sold-out headlining show in New Smyrna Beach, FL. With heartfelt songwriting and authentic performances, Reed connects with fans across generations—and with new music on the way, he's quickly carving his place in country music's next chapter.

70Kfollowers

over all social media platforms

2.1Mviews

On Tiktok, Facebook, Youtube & more

20Mstreams

across all platforms

63Kspotify

monthly listeners

LATEST MUSIC VIDEOS

Country Girl

A Lot to Unpack

HIGHLIGHTS

- 2024 Minor League Baseball Stadium post-game tour (12 cities)
- Top 40 on the MusicRow breakout chart
- ~1M views on "Ain't What It Was" music video
- Texas Roadhouse's Artist of the Month (March)
- Opened for Jason Aldean, Cooper Alan & more
- Eight NASCAR fan zone performances at various tracks

VENUES/CONCERTS

- Country Thunder (Kissimmee, FL)
- Oregon Jamboree (Sweet Home, OR)
- Joe's Live (Rosemont, IL)
- KEGS Canalside (Jordan, NY)
- House of Blues (Orlando, FL)

PRESS PHOTOS

LINKS

